1847-1930

Introduction

The Rathmines Township was created in 1847 by Act of Parliament (10 & 11 Vict., c. 253). Under the Rathmines and Rathgar Improvement Act, 1862, the townlands of Rathgar and Sallymount (the latter comprising present-day Ranelagh) were added to the re-named Rathmines and Rathgar Township, which was further extended in 1866 to include townlands in Uppercross. Milltown was added to the township under the Milltown Extension Act, 1880.

Originally the township was governed by Commissioners, but under the Local Government (Ireland) Act of 1898 (61 & 62 Vict., c. 37), the Rathmines and Rathgar Urban District Council was established as the elected governing body.

The Rathmines Township was created as a sanitary area, but new functions were added with each of the above acts, so that its duties came to include responsibility for public lighting and water supply as well as drainage, which was provided jointly with the Pembroke Township. After 1898, the Urban District Council built a number of small housing schemes, under legislation for housing of the working classes.

The Urban District Council met in the magnificent Town Hall on Rathmines Road, which was designed by Sir Thomas Drew and was used for the first meeting of the UDC in January 1899. The interior fittings were by Carlo Cambi of Siena, who was also responsible for who was also responsible for doors and panelling in the National Library and National Museum of Ireland. The famous Town Hall clock was made in 1897 by Chancellor and Son, of Bachelor's Walk and Sackville Street (modern O'Connell Street) at a cost of £130. The clock chimes were also made in 1897, by Matthew Byrne of James's Street at a cost of £264.

Under the Local Government (Dublin) Act of 1930, the district of Rathmines and Rathgar became part of the City of Dublin, under the administration of Dublin Corporation. The Urban District Council held its last meeting in the Town Hall in 1930 and today the building is the Rathmines Senior College, a constituent college of the City of Dublin Vocational Education Committee.

RATHMINES AND RATHGAR TOWNSHIP/URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL LIST 10

Introduction

The following documents relate to property in the present Mount Pleasant Avenue and Gulistan Avenue, Rathmines, which was held by widow Mary Halahan under a lease issued by the Earl of Meath for one hundred years in 1832. In this lease the property is described as “No. 8, part of Cullenswood”; after 1846, it is called “Gulistan” which may have been inspired by the epic work of that title written by the 13th century Persian poet, Sadi. The Gulistan was first translated in 1787 and proved to be very popular, with extracts being quoted frequently as proverbs (1).

Mary Halahan died in 1846 and bequeathed her interest in Gulistan to her unmarried daughters, Jane, Dorothea and Lucy Halahan (see UDC/1/10/2, below). The Halahan sisters issued building leases to their sister-in-law Mrs. Sophy Halahan, which resulted in six houses being erected at Gulistan Avenue (see UDC/1/10/3, below); and to their sister Mrs. Augusta Fitzsimons, who built two fine villas which are still standing, Aubrey Cottage and Mosaphir Cottage (see UDC/1/10/4 and 6, below). The Meath lease was later bequeathed by the Halahan sisters jointly to their nephew Christopher, son of their brother Hickman Rose Halahan; and to their niece Mary, daughter of their brother Samuel Handy Halahan and wife of Richard H. Dowse. After 1880, the Dowses took out several mortgages on Mary’s interest in the property, to which she had to affirm her voluntary consent, an acknowledgement of the improved status of married women.

In 1891, the Commissioners of Rathmines and Rathgar purchased the Halahan family’s interest in Gulistan, with a view to the erection of artisan dwellings on the site (see UDC/1/Mins. 1/6, pp 293, 338). The documents which are contained in list 10 came into the possession of the Commissioners together with the property at that time.

This descriptive list was prepared in 1982 and portions of it were drawn up by Rose Doyle and Norma Foley, as part of work-experience while studying for the Diploma in Archival Studies at University College Dublin.
