Lord Mayor's Certificate in Oral History 2016–2017

FRONT COVER: DCLA: North Strand Bombing Photographic Collection (1941)

Leabharlanna Poiblí Chathair Bhaile Átha Cliath
Dublin City Public Libraries

The Lord Mayor's Certificate in Oral History is offered by Dublin City Council as part of its commitment to life-long learning. The course will equip participants with skills in the preparation and conduct of oral history projects, including best practice in the collection and archiving of oral history interviews. It examines the wealth of recorded oral narrative sources in Ireland in both oral history and folklore.

DCLA: Maeve Mooney & Noel Fitzgerald, participants in North Strand Bombing Oral History Project.

Commencing in September 2016, the Lord Mayor's Certificate in Oral History will be taught at Dublin City Library & Archive, 138–144 Pearse Street, Dublin 2. Classes are held on Monday evenings to facilitate attendance by a broad range of people. The closing date for applications is 5pm on Friday 16 September 2016. (See attached form).

Course Aims

The course give participants formal and practical training in how to prepare oral history projects, conduct and transcribe interviews and present oral history research. Participants will develop writing and presentation skills and learn how to locate their research within broader historical and cultural contexts.

Course Duration

The course consists of 70 hours part-time from September 2016 to April 2017. This comprises 65 hours of class-based tuition and two visits to archive services in the Dublin area.

Course Venue

The Certificate in Oral History will be taught at Dublin City Library & Archive in Pearse Street. Dublin City Library & Archive consists of the Dublin & Irish Local Studies Library, along with the Dublin City Archives, which together contain historic collections of civic and national importance, providing unique and unrivalled public access to all aspects of Dublin's multi-faceted history.

Course Content

A. Introduction to Oral History

This module will introduce participants to the key concepts and methodologies in oral history. It will equip students with essential skills in interviewing techniques and encourage engagement with ethical research issues.

B. Irish History: Sources and Methods

This module will assist students in the contextualisation of their own research projects in an historical and cultural context. It will introduce documentary and other sources for the study of Irish history.

C. Oral Heritage and Memory: Private and Public

This module examines the contribution of oral history to public history and commemoration. Participants are introduced to Irish folklore and a range of public oral history projects from around the world.

D. Seminar Module

A self-directed research module providing assistance in the design and development of students own oral history research.

Admission Requirements

Participants are required to have an interest in oral history together with an indication of capacity to take the course.

Course Assessment Procedures

Participants will be required to:

- Attend a minimum of 80% of classes
 - Each participant will be required to:
 - (i) Prepare and present an oral history research proposal
 - (ii) Complete a short written secondary source report
 - (iii) Complete their own oral history research project containing two (minimum) to five (maximum) oral history interviews.
- NOTE: Ethical conduct is treated rigorously throughout the Cert programme and forms an essential part of course assessment

Course Conventions

Conventions in place for the course will include Dublin City Council's Customer Charter and Code of Conduct for Members of the Public. Copies of both documents are available on request, e-mail cityarchives@dublincity.ie

Course Tutor

The Course Tutors for the Certificate in Oral History at Dublin City Library & Archive will be Dr. Catherine O'Connor and Dr. Mary McCarthy.

Dr. Catherine O'Connor completed a PhD at the University of Limerick in 2007. She has worked on post-doctoral projects using oral history and has taught oral history in the Dept of History UL, from certificate to post-graduate level. She is a founding Director of the Oral History Network of Ireland (OHNI).

Dr. Mary McCarthy completed a PhD at the University of Limerick in 2008 and has taught history in the Dept. of History UL and Oscail DCU. She has taught oral history at certificate level in University of Limerick. She is a member of OHNI.

Fees

- The fee is €500, payable by cheque or bank draft made out to Dublin City Council. Receipts will be issued for all cheques/ bank drafts received. The course is subsidised by Dublin City Council; fees charged are essential to cover teaching expenses.
- NOTE: In order for the course to proceed, a minimum of 12 participants will be required. If the course does not proceed, cheques/bank drafts will be refunded.
- An upper limit of 16 participants will apply. Applicants will be given places on a first-come, first-served basis, subject to receipt of completed application form and cheque or bank draft for fees made out to Dublin City Council.
