1 That this council is deeply concerned at the increasing erosion of cultural life and space in Dublin City.

Furthermore this council agrees to the following measures to help address this; -

- Initiate a variation of City Development Plan to limit the number of hotels being developed.
- Initiate a review of the development plan to propose any other variations that can be made to urgently protect and promote nightlife and creative culture in Dublin.
- Write to minister for tourism seeking an urgent meeting with representatives of this council to address the increasing erosion of creative cultural life in the city.
- Write to minister for Culture seeking an urgent meeting with representatives of council to address the increasing erosion of creative cultural life in the city.
- Write to the minister for justice seeking policy and legislative changes to protect and promote nightlife in Dublin, and to seek a meeting on this issue with representatives
- Progress the appointment a night mayor for Dublin city, a role agreed in the Dublin Agreement that has worked well in other cities to promote the night time economy.
- Establish a special committee of council to discuss how we can deliver multi-purpose venues in the City to fill the rising deficit in space to foster and facilitate creative culture, as listed in the Dublin Agreement.
- To Encourage and support urban street art, the City Council to simplify the planning approval process for murals on external facades.
